Ex New Zealand Army Hut

In 1856, as a small child, Emily Christian arrived on Norfolk Island from Pitcairn Island with her family and other descendants of the Bounty mutineers.

Later, Emily married George Bailey, the island blacksmith and music master with the Melanesian Mission.

Together they established this lovely homestead and raised their family on this property granted to them by Queen Victoria in 1877.

Their granddaughter Marie still lives in the home and invites you to see and hear what life was like for earlier generations.
